

My name is Sumeer Saifi. I live near one of India's biggest wildlife sanctuaries "Jim Corbett National Park ". I have done my schooling from the "C.B.S.E" board. I am also a hotelier, I did my graduation in hotel management from the IHM Hyderabad. I also hold one year of experience as a "Reservation and Sales Associate" in the ITC Corporate office.

My latest qualification is a certification course in "Data Science and Machine learning" from the IIM Raipur.

My soft skills are:

--> Good communicator.

--> formal relationship builder.

My core skills are:

--> Good in logical reasoning.

-->Good in Math and aptitude.

My hobbies are playing guitar, Football, Table-Tennis, analyzing business case studies, and my current hobby is coding on hackerrank.

When I completed my schooling. My goal was to be an entrepreneur. So, I found the food industry as one of the best ways to achieve my goal. When I started my journey, it was very glamorous and captivating but, later when I found that, every string of hoteliers was attached to a strict schedule and discipline. I was facing difficulties at this point, anyhow I completed it, and these three years completely changed me. I would say "When I entered the room I was thinking what to do, and When I was leaving I exactly knew how to do it." Now I was knowledgeable, and the next step was to be wiser so, I started a job not in ITC hotels but in ITC corporate office as a reservation and sales associate to understand how a centralization in the hotel industry work, their business module, and also to get a macro-level blueprint of there business hierarchy. For the first time when I completed my given sales target, I was given a bonus in terms of shares so, this was the turning point and reason that I am here with Edyoda.

Those shares captivated me a lot. I have burned a lot of midnight oil in understanding the share market and, within a month or two I started investing and swing trading to footfall some of my small bills. Everything was "hunky dorey" but unfortunately, we all were hit by the pandemic and I have to discontinue my job in the hotel industry as they were one of the sectors which were harshly hit by Covid-19. So, I can almost see the dream I was dreaming was going far away, and in the meanwhile when I was at home I started working in the stock market and became a sub-broker of the "Angel Broking and Upstox". Here, after some time I was introduced to a new concept called Algo trading. Meanwhile, when we all were stuck in lockdown I was hyperactive in social media and founded a course in Data science and machine learning by the IIM Raipur. I was thinking doing this course will help me in Algo trading and start a new career as well.

After doing some research I took the course but, it did not help me completely in starting two months the level was easy but suddenly everything was bouncing as the classes only happen on weekends so, I realized that such a big course cannot be completed only by studying on weekends. so, again I researched and found Edyoda as one of the most promising and budding platforms to start again.
